With our easy-to-use, browser-based content management tools, you can keep your site up-todate anywhere, anytime. All you need is a web browser and internet connection.

Just Click Edit

Once you sign in with administrator access, to update your content, you simply navigate to the page and click Edit. No complicated "back-end" navigation systems to learn just to find your page.

Content Separated from Design:

Update text and image content interfering with (or messing up) the overall site design and layout.

WordProcessor-like Page Editor:

An easy-to-use MS-Word-like set of tools provides quick and easy content updating.

Images:

Add photos or graphics easily. Resize, and crop (on-the-fly) without the need for additional graphics software.

As the son of a photographer, I've been involved in the field since Dad bought me my first camera in high school and we turned my bedroom into a darkroom. I've worked as a photojournalist for almost 25 years, as photo director for daily newspapers and a city magazine. I've traveled the country shooting sports photos, and represented international photo agencies most of my career.

I've been fortunate in receiving recognition from many organizations in the course of my career. My journalistic work has garnered over 30 state and national awards from The Associated Press, United Press International and Georgia Press Association. It's always nice to have people like your images, but being singled out by professional groups for outstanding images is a wonderful boost in this competitive field!

annual meetings.

After taking photography at Auburn University and LaGrange College, I received my journalism degree from the University of Georgia. The UGA Journalism School is special to me, as my father also graduated from this college, and I had the wonderful opportunity to teach classes there for a year in an adjunct position. I've done seminars around the state, and have
